

Current Connections: July 2026

July marks the midpoint of the year and offers an opportunity to reflect on the progress we've made while focusing on the work still ahead. As summer continues, our commitment to safety, teamwork, and excellence remains as strong as ever. Every project completed, every challenge overcome, and every milestone reached is a testament to the dedication of our employees and the strength of our organization. By staying focused, supporting one another, and maintaining the high standards that define H&W, we will continue building on our momentum and positioning ourselves for a successful second half of the year.

Where People Come First

Kristen Wood

Director of Human Resources

At H&W, we believe that our greatest investment is in our people, because when our employees grow, our company grows alongside them.

Human Resources is often viewed as the department responsible for hiring, policies, benefits, or compliance. While these responsibilities are important, HR's true purpose is to support, develop, and advocate for our employees throughout every stage of their journey. From recruiting talented individuals and providing meaningful onboarding experiences to offering training, career development, employee relations support, benefits assistance, and promoting a safe and respectful workplace, HR is committed to helping every employee succeed.

I believe every person deserves to be treated with kindness, fairness, integrity, and respect, regardless of their role within the organization. Every interaction is an opportunity to encourage, support, and positively impact someone's day. While Human Resources must uphold company policies, ensure compliance, and make fair and consistent decisions, I strive to approach each situation with humility, and grace. My faith serves as a daily reminder that caring for people and treating others with dignity and respect is the heart of true leadership.

Our employees are the backbone of the organization. Their dedication, craftsmanship, and commitment is the driving force behind our success. Every project completed safely and every customer served reflects the hard work and dedication of the men and women who represent H&W each day. I have tremendous respect and appreciation for the sacrifices our employees make and the pride they take in their work. Supporting our employees, recognizing their contributions, and helping them grow professionally and personally is what makes Human Resources such an important part of our organization.

PROJECT PROFILE: HUWELL CHEMICALS

Project Manager: Roger Williams

H&W Electrical is partnering with Huwell Chemicals to modernize the electrical infrastructure at their Gaffney facility, enabling production of L'Oréal makeup products. The comprehensive renovation includes two new electrical substations and a complete bus duct distribution system, providing reliable capacity for expanded manufacturing operations.

Our scope encompasses a full new lighting package, modifications to existing power distribution, and installation of new feeders and branch circuits throughout the facility. We are executing precision equipment connections, raceways, and wiring to serve the newly constructed mixing tower and filling room—critical components in the product manufacturing workflow.

This large-scale electrical infrastructure upgrade demonstrates H&W's capability to deliver mission-critical power solutions while maintaining continuity of existing operations.
